

There is no similarity between golf and putting; they are two different games, one played in the air, and the other on the ground. ~ Ben

RULE OF THE MONTH

Q:
A player begins his downswing with the intention of striking the ball but decides during the downswing not to strike the ball. The player is unable to stop the club before it reaches the ball, but he is able to swing intentionally over the top of the ball. Is the player deemed to have made a stroke?

• Ken Venturi: "Everybody has a hole, or type of hole, that just doesn't jibe with their imagination. The key is to make it fit your eye, even if it means hitting an iron off the tee and then a fairway wood to the green. Never fight your eye. The hole will win every time."

Sam Snead: "Keep close count of your nickels and dimes, stay away from whiskey, and never concede a putt."

. I don't fear death, but I sure don't like those three-footers for par. ~ Chi Chi Rodriguez

So, on Nov. 28, 2012, the R&A and USGA announced the proposed wording of a new rule, "Rule 14-1b: Anchoring the Club"

Note 1: The club is anchored "directly" when the player intentionally holds the club or a gripping hand in contact with any part of his body, except that the player may hold the club or a gripping hand against a hand or forearm.

Note 2: An "anchor point" exists when the player intentionally holds a forearm in contact with any part of his body to establish a gripping hand as a stable point around which the other hand may swing the club.

You can hit a 2-acre fairway 10-percent of the time, but hit a 2-inch branch 90-percent of the time.

A:

No. The player is considered to have checked his downswing voluntarily by altering the path of his downswing and missing the ball even though the swing carried the club head beyond the ball.

Ben Hogan: "I hate a hook. It nauseates me. I could vomit when I see one. It's like a rattlesnake in your pocket."

Chi Chi Rodriguez: "I never exaggerate. I just remember big."
